President's Message

Dear friends

It is a special privilege for me to be in this post occupied by the doyens of Surgical oncology in the country and write this message of greeting you all .

The Indian association of Surgical Oncology which was started more than thirty years ago has grown from strength to strength with the addition of members every year . It has surgeons from various disciplines of surgery who have special interest in Oncology. The subject has grown into a full fledged specialty, with Post Graduate super specialty course in Surgical Oncology having been started in nearly twenty centers across the country. Every year nearly fifty students get graduated in the specialty. we, as senior members of the faculty have the responsibility to guide them in their carrier. The IASO news letter hence become a great platform to educate them and guide them in their endeavour .

Any publication will require a lot of hard work and this news letter has seen a lot of them from the heart and soul of the editor, Dr Sanjay Kapoor. I request all of you to contribute your time and experience to perpetuate the good works the editors have done so far.

Forthcoming IASO conference in Chennai has got a lot of focus on young surgical oncologists. I request you to take your time not only to attend the conference but to bring you colleagues also in large numbers.

Looking forward to meeting you in Chennai

With best wishes

Secretary's Message

Dear all

Greetings from the desk of the secretary. This marks the second year since taking over as the Secretary of the Indian Association of Surgical Oncology and the journey has been only on the upswing ably supported by all you friends. The last year had a fantastic meeting in Delhi 2013 and the sectional meeting in ASICON 2013 in Ahmedabad was well attended.

The MID CON IASO 2014 in Kolhapur marked this year's first scientific forum. The Deccan Surgical Society had tied up with the IASO to provide a veritable scientific feast. Dr. Suraj Pawar had been entrusted this onerous task which he fulfilled ably with sessions on Head and neck, breast and thoracic cancers.

On the national front Dr. Harit Chaturvedi and myself have just returned from attending the SSO meet in Phoenix where our first SSO IASO scholar Dr. Suraj Manjunath was attending before proceeding to his short training course. The ESSO had talks with us regarding our participation in the World surgical Conference to be held from 29-31 October 2014 in Liverpool of which the IASO is a scientific contributor.

The next NATCON is in Chennai from 18-21st September 2014 and as usual Dr. Arvind Krishnamurthi the organizing secretary will promise and deliver an exciting scientific programme.

I would urge all to register for the meeting at www. Natconiaso2014.org and then submit your abstracts for the same. There will be no further CME's meetings till the September conference as per our agreement.

The website is up and functioning well and I urge you to enroll colleagues especially the younger ones in the membership of the IASO so that we can make this a bigger stronger and inclusive association.

All the very best for this coming year and the future

From the Editors Desk

Dear Friends

Greetings from the editorial desk!

Hope you all are being updated regularly by the Website and the regular posts on the activities of IASO and other Oncological activities in India and Abroad.

In view of the increasing number of members which the older Yahoo group mail could not handle, we have shifted to the Google Group mail and it is good to see that members are using it. Hope it is helpful and I request you all to use it more often to interact academically with the other members of IASO. You can mail the matter to me at my email or post directly at iaso2013@googlegroup.com. Feel free to post interesting articles with all and share your views or problems to initiate academic discussions and use this media to showcase the good work being done around you and interesting cases.

Moving ahead on path of ecofriendliness to save paper and seeing the increasing use of the groupmail and website we have skipped the printed version from this year.

Inspite of all repeated efforts we still do not have emails of a large number of members specially the old ones and posts to many emails bounce. It is hence requested once again that please intimate your email and provide an alternate one if available, Spread this message to other members of IASO in your hospital or institute

Look forward to meeting you all soon at Chennai

Minutes of Meeting of Society of Surgical Oncology and The Indian Association of Surgical Oncology

Friday, March 14, 2014, Phoenix, AZ

Attending:

Dhairyasheel Savant, MD (President, IASO)

Harit Chaturvedi, MD (Vice President, IASO)

Chandrakanth Are, MD (IASO)

V. Suzanne Klimberg, MD (President, SSO)

Ronald Weigel, MD (President Elect, SSO)

D. Coit, MD (International Outreach Committee)

Mitchell C. Posner, MD (Dr. Manjunath host, University of Chicago)

Suraj Manjunath, MS, MCh (International Career Development Exchange Participant)

M. Eileen Widmer, CAE, CFRM (Executive Director, SSO)

Charmaine J. Cummings, PhD, RN (Director, Education)

Marilyn Geary, MA (Assistant Director, Scientific and International Programs)

After introductions of all present at the meeting, Dr. Coit opened the meeting by relating the background of the SSO International Program and a review of the current collaborative programs between the IASO and SSO. He emphasized the great cooperation and quality programs that have been presented. The SSO would like to continue these efforts and develop a template for the relationship between the two societies..

Current Program Collaborations

Under the current understanding, the IASO has presented a Best of SSO program for the past 6 years. The IASO has regional meetings every year, but it is planned that every four years this meeting will be presented in conjunction with the Indian Cancer Congress. The first cancer congress was held in 2013; Dr. Balch, Dr. Are and Ms. Widmer participated in the meeting but, unfortunately, Dr. Klimberg was unable to attend. At the meeting, SSO faculty presented topics identified from the SSO 2013 program by the IASO. The IASO has approximately 1200 members but there were 5,000 attendees at the Cancer Congress.

In discussion regarding the new International Career Development Exchange, the IASO executives commented that they believe that the stipend of $8,000 plus could cover two Indian representatives to visit the USA for the Career Development Exchange.

It was noted that the SSO is formalizing a Memo of Understanding that will describe the two societies and our existing programs. This will help to solidify our existing collaborative programs. Dr. Cummings is working on this document and it will be sent to the IASO in late April for review.

Other Opportunities in the Concept Stage

The IASO would like their members to have membership in the SSO, including access to all education on the SSO website, registration for the Annual Cancer Symposium at the membership rate, access to SOSAP and access to the online version of the Annals of Surgical Oncology. They would like membership dues and other fees and registration to be adjusted in line with the World Bank guide for developing countries. It was suggested that this agreement initially be in effect for five years.

Dr. Coit noted that any partnership made with the IASO should be equitable with partnerships the SSO has with other societies.

It was also suggested that the International Career Development Exchange could be a reciprocal arrangement whereby Fellows from the US visit India to participate in observerships in head and neck surgeries. The visit by American surgeons could be in conjunction with the IASO annual conference and that registration to the meeting and a travel/housing stipend would be offered.

Discussion turned to the Best of SSO program as offered in India and the licensing arrangement that the SSO is in the process of developing. It was pointed out that the Indian offering comprises of only one session, rather than the extensive offering that is currently being developed. Ms. Widmer added that there is also the potential for a Best of SSO/Best of ASCO program to be presented at the IASO conference. There was also discussion about the role that industry is allowed to play in educational offerings in India, which is very different from that in the United States.

The IASO asked what the cost of licensing the Best of SSO might be. Dr. Coit replied that a list of fees for a la carte access to SSO offerings could be developed.

The meeting concluded with Dr. Klimberg, Dr. Weigel and Dr. Coit thanking the IASO for their collaboration and the cooperation of the IASO leadership in this partnership and group photographs.

Report on IASO MIDCON

In Indian Cancer Congress 2013, held in Delhi, IASO decided the Conference for 2014 to be hosted in KOLHAPUR.

The conference was done in collaboration with Deccan Surgical Society . This was the first national conference ever held in Kolhapur being organized by a private medical practitioner Dr. Suraj Pawar. Since it was a national event happening for the first time in Kolhapur an experienced event management team was necessary to be involved to make this event successful. Event contact person from Green Room Media is Mr. Apoorva Mehta -9819722868.

Website iasoMIDCON2014.com was launched 2 months prior to the meeting as to get the complete information about the program. Maharashtra Medical Council accredited IASO MIDCON 2014 with 3 credit points for the conference. A target of 150 delegates was expected. Speakers were hinted about the mood and quality of the target audience.

The event was attended by 191 delegates from all over India. A huge support in terms of audience was shown by the members of Indian Association of Surgical Oncology and Deccan Surgical Society. The faculty represented the best of the country. Excellent participation was seen from Faculty & Students towards free papers and master videos.

The 1st Day began with paper presentations and mesmerizing videos. We had 2 sessions each of 4 hours and 30mins . The theme was organ based lectures followed by a panel discussions. An entertaining Gala banquet dinner at Dream World Kolhapur completed the day.

The Inauguration was a grand programme. Hon Dr. Pratapsinh G. Jadhav (Awarded Padmashree by His Excellency President of India) Chairman & Chief Editor, Daily Pudhari, Kolhapur, was the chief guest. Dr. S H Pawar (Vice Chacellor D Y Patil Deemed University Kolhapur and Dr. Dashrath Kothule (Dean Rajashri.

Chatrapati Shahu Maharaj Gov t Medical College Kolhapur) were the Guest Of Honour.

Inauguration speech was Given in the following order Dr. Rajaram, Dr. B T Kurane, Dr. Dhairyasheel Savant, Hon Dr. Pratapsinh G. Jadhav followed by vote of thanks by Dr. Suraj Pawar

The 2nd Day had 2 sessions each of 3 hours many lectures, panel discussion, free papers, master videos. The quality of scientific material presented was very high. The participation by the audience was highly enthusiastic and totally interactive.

IASO MIDCON 2014 was the highlight of Kolhapur and was published in many local newspapers. Many senior IASO members appreciated the work and effort put into making this event successful in a city like Kolhapur. The conference raised the bar for academic quality in IASO.

IASO mission to hold big conferences in the remote cities was successful. The hosts proved that small towns and cities can also host conferences successfully. Finally, private practitioners can now confidently host major conferences and can be relied upon.

Many delegates described the quality of academic material, the hospitality and the ambiance to be better than many events. Several emails and phone calls were exchanged post conference to send congratulatory wishes for the wonderful experience of a national conference in a small city of Kolhapur.

Report on IASO MIDCON

Minutes of Executive Committee Meeting During IASO MIDCON 2014

1. The meeting was called at 2 pm and however, due to lack of quorum it was reconvened and started at 2:30 pm.
2. President Dr. Rajaraman welcomed all the executive committee members and said that the minutes of the previous EC meeting previously should be circulated to the absent EC members as the quorum was less.
3. Minutes of the EC meet held on 28/12/2013 during ASICON 2013 was confirmed by Dr. Kannan and seconded by Dr. Ravi Deo.. This will be circulated to the EC as will be the minutes of this meeting.
4. Dr. Kannan proposed a scientific program “Newer Technology in Management of Head and Neck Cancer”. This was discussed and planned to be incorporated on NATCON 2015.
5. The EC has decided after deliberations that the Motibhai Oration for 2014 should be offered to Dr. Ronald Weigel president of SSO enhancing our efforts to strengthen our relations with SSO.
6. The EC endorses that Dr. Mayilvahanan be given the 2015 Motibhai oration.
7. The EC has unanimously decided to give Dr. Jatin Shah the Dr. Raja S. Rao endowment lecture for 2014 after getting the approval from Dr. Satish Rao (son of later Dr. Raja S. Rao).
8. The executive committee recommended certain modifications in the provisional NATCON 2014 program.
 - a. Increase Head and Neck cancer sessions with emphasis on hypopharyngeal cancer.
9. A proposal to incorporate the sectional program for ASICON 2014. with thoracic and endocrine society to be discussed with the respective societies and to add case capsules in Penile cancers.
10. The secretary apprised the EC regarding discussions with the SSO . The SSO will continue its scholarship programme and will be participating as usual in the NATCON. The ESSO meeting at Liverpool this year along with the BASO will be seeing an enhanced programme with IASO participation . The secretary made an offer to the ESSO leadership to consider onetime payment option to the ESSO to facilitate IASO members becoming members of the ESSO. The ESSO leadership comprising of Dr. Poston and Dr. Audisio would discuss with the parent body and revert back.
11. The EC also discussed the difficulties about its association with BASO. It was decided to discuss this issue in the forthcoming GBM. The EC also proposed to look for an association with the Korean Society for scientific exchange program. Dr. K. Gopinath said that the he and Dr. Sanjeev Misra will talk at Asian Clinical Oncology Society for the collaboration.
12. The EC also decided to invite nominations for an Associate Editor in IJSO. The norms being detailed later.
13. The EC also decided that the secretary should write a letter to ASI regarding the fact that IASO is a financially independent body and get a reply.

As there was no other matter the meeting ended with a vote of thanks to the chair.

My visit to USA as SSO's International Career Development Award Recipient

Suraj Manjunath
Department of Surgical Oncology
St. John's Medical College Hospital
Bangalore, India

My visit to the USA as SSO's International Career Development Award Recipient, 2014 consisted of the following three parts:

1. Attending the SSO 2014 Symposium
2. Visit to The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center
3. Visit to University of Chicago Medicine

1. Attending the SSO 2014 Symposium:

My program started with the SSO International Reception hosted by Dr V. Suzanne Klimberg President of the SSO, on the evening of 12th March. This reception was attended by many executives of the SSO, as well as other prominent SSO members involved in the international activities of the SSO. I was cordially welcomed and introduced to many of the SSO members present. I was also introduced to Dr Mitchell Posner, who would be my host at the Department of Surgery, University of Chicago Medicine, which I would visit later.

The SSO symposium proper started on 13th March. The SSO 2014 supported the MyItinerary App on iPad so I could plan ahead which of many simultaneous sessions I could attend. I began the Symposium by attending the session on "Expert Practice in GE Junction Carcinoma". The first presentation discussed screening and endoscopic therapy, both of which are rare in my country. The western perspective towards minimally invasive surgical approaches was interesting as I also do MIS for esophageal cancer, and I learnt the differences in their approach to GE junction cancers. Dr Takeuchi from Japan spoke about Keio University's technique for Sentinel Lymph Node biopsy for GE Junction cancers, again not something normally done in India.

This session was followed by a Joint SSO/ESSO symposium on Current Controversies in Neuroendocrine Tumors. Dr Akerstrom from Sweden, one of the world's foremost experts on NETs gave a talk, followed by a presentation on NETs of Unknown Primary by an extremely articulate and witty Dr Pommier from Portland.

The afternoon began with a hotly debated session on ERAS and Pancreatic Surgery, followed by parallel sessions on specific subsites of cancer, which focused on original papers.

There was a welcome reception in the evening during which I saw the posters on display. I interacted with some of the presenters. I was delighted to find a poster from India, on Management of Synovial Sarcoma. I met the presenter (also called Dr Manjunath) who was here on a grant, and learnt that he would also be visiting University of Chicago Medicine during the same time as me.

There were two plenary sessions on the morning of 14th March, both of which had three interesting papers on various topics, including colorectal cancer, breast cancer, and pancreatic cancer. At 10 AM, Dr Klimberg gave her presidential address on TranslationalEducation@SSO.edu, in which she highlighted the steps the SSO has taken towards furthering Surgical Oncologic training in the USA and abroad, including starting the SSO International Career Development Award in three countries. Being a teacher at a University Medical Center myself, I gained a lot of insight into how an organization like the SSO can contribute towards education, especially with programs like the SOSAP. The presidential address was followed by presentation of the James Ewing Layman's Award (also by the President) to Mr Joseph Moore, Fashion Footwear Charitable Foundation of New York. Dr Klimberg explained how this foundation has made enormous contributions in breast cancer fundraising, especially through their fundraiser "FFANY Shoes on Sale" in New York.

The presidential address was followed by the Lames Ewing Lecture by Dr Charis Eng who spoke about Gene-enabled surgical decision making – and her work on cancer genetics and genomics based research. During lunch, I was able to see some video presentation of interesting surgeries – open, laparoscopic as well as robotic. In the afternoon there was a presentation of "Distinguished Service Award" honoring Dr Dudrick, and an ACS/SSO basic science lecture by Dr Gillies on Why Targeted Therapies Don't Work. Following this, I attended the SSO/IASO executive meeting at 2 PM. This was a meeting of the executives from the SSO as well as the IASO, and included a formal photo session.

In the afternoon, like the previous day, there were multiple parallel sessions of original papers, including one on Thoracic/esophageal cancer, in which I have a special interest. This was moderated by Dr Posner, who would be my host in Chicago. In the evening, there was an interesting session on controversies in endocrine surgery. This session was in the form of debates with speakers arguing for and against three controversial topics.

Saturday morning started with parallel sessions, among which I attended one on Upper GI/ Pancreatic Cancers. This was followed by the John Wayne Clinical Research Lecture by Dr Clifford Ko from UCLA, who spoke on Research and Policy. Following this, there was a series of interesting Clinical Investigator Award Presentations, mainly on translational research in oncology. During lunch, I again saw some surgical video presentations, mainly on robotic surgery. Following lunch, I opted to attend the education session on top rated videos. This included a presentation by my fellow International Career Development awardee Dr Corona-Cruz. I left the symposium towards the end of this session as my flight to Houston was at 3.30 PM. Overall the symposium was an informative and enriching experience.

2. Visit to The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center

I went to MD Anderson Cancer Center on the morning of Monday, 17th March, where I was slated to be an observer for a period of one week with the Thoracic and Cardiovascular Surgery Department, under the mentorship of Dr Stephen G. Swisher and Dr Wayne Hofstetter. Ms Dara Keener at the Program Coordinator's Office of the Department helped me with the initial formalities, and personally took me to the operating room to introduce me to one of the Thoracic Surgery fellows, Dr Azam Jan. With his help, I was able to get scrubs and enter the ORs. On that day, there was a right middle lobectomy for lung cancer, performed by Dr Hofstetter. I observed the procedure itself, and also the operating rooms – their layout, equipment, electronic medical records systems, processes of 'sign in' and 'sign out' by each member of the operating team, and other such clinical processes which are uncommon in my country.

Dr Azam Jan and his colleagues, Dr Jonathan Spicer and Dr Jess Joyman, were very helpful and took pains to answer all my many questions and took me around with them to the patient floor areas, intensive care areas, clinics, rounds and teaching sessions. Over the course of five days at MD Anderson, I went on patient visits with them and with Dr Swisher, and spent time observing the intensive care areas. I also attended out-patient clinics with Dr Swisher, which was a good learning experience as the clinics in the US function differently from clinics back home in India. I observed some more surgeries, including Ivor Lewis esophagectomy, and a left internal mammary lymph node biopsy. I learnt that the Ivor Lewis procedure with intrathoracic anastomosis is the surgery of choice for esophageal cancer among surgeons at MD Anderson, and discussed with them the reasons for this choice – we in India tend to do neck anastomosis.

I attended daily early morning rounds with the residents and fellows, during which they would discuss all the patients currently admitted on the floor and in Intensive Care, and plans for their day to day management. I also attended the teaching sessions, including a journal club on the evening of 17th March which was at a restaurant close to MD Anderson and was accompanied by dinner. There were other teaching seminars as well, one on lung cancer and one on esophageal cancer, which I found quite interesting.

Saturday was day off, and I left for Chicago on Sunday, 23rd March.

3. Visit to University of Chicago Medicine

I reached the office of Dr Mitchell Posner on the morning of 24th March – my hotel was about two miles away, but they had a free shuttle to and from the hospital, which was very convenient. Ms Carmen Barr who was co-ordinating my visit to Chicago, and Ms Roberta Carden, Dr Posner's assistant helped me with the preliminary formalities. One of the residents Dr Andrew took me from the office to the OR, where Dr Posner was operating on that day. Dr Posner welcomed me cordially and explained the surgery he was performing. It was an interesting Right hepatectomy along with bile duct resection, and I was able to closely observe the surgery as there was an OR light mounted camera which displayed the procedure onto a large television screen in the OR. The OR itself was in the new Center for Care and Discovery (CDD) building, which is a state of the art 10-story hospital, which they call the “hospital of the future”. After the surgery was over, I spent some time looking at this state of the art OR, and understanding the way it functions.

Over the next four days, I observed several other surgeries, including a total pancreatectomy, and an interesting case of GIST for which a partial gastrectomy along with en bloc small bowel and colonic resection was done. I also attended clinics, where Dr Posner took a personal interest in explaining a few cases to me. Dr Posner also took me to his office where we spent some time discussing the objectives of my visit and how best to accomplish them. He talked about some interesting aspects of the history of University of Chicago Medicine, and I was fascinated to learn that the department of surgery had produced two Nobel laureates Dr Charles Huggins and Dr Alexis Carrel. We also discussed plans for residents at my university hospital in India to visit Chicago for observing with him. I also attended several teaching sessions, including a very interesting case-conference, where the residents presented cases treated in the previous week and some cases planned for surgery in the coming days. There was a very good discussion among the residents/fellows and the faculty, especially Dr Posner and Dr Kevin Roggin. I completed my visit on Friday, 28th March after OR, and Dr Posner and I agreed to stay in touch and explore the options for my residents to visit him in Chicago.
